BOUCHER DIES FROM INJURIES

Downey, His Assailant, Charged
With Manslaughter and Held Without Bail

William Boucher, the chauffeur, who was seriously injured on Thursday morning as the result of a controversy with John Downey, butler at the residence of Dr. Edward S. Cowles on Middle street on Thursday morning, died at the Portsmouth hospital this Saturday morning at 5.30 o'clock.

According to Boucher's statement, made before Judge Guptill at the hospital, the two men engaged in an argument over a telephone message that Downey failed to give to Boucher. The argument became so heated that Downey seized a carving knife and made a rush for Boucher inflicting a slight wound in the latter's side. The two men then clinched and in the struggle went out of the window into the yard a distance of 5 or 10 feet. Boucher was undermost and he struck with such force as to break his back and cause paralysis of his arms and lower limbs.

The attending physicians, Drs. Fred S. Tingle and John H. Neal, realized the seriousness of the injuries and a specialist, Dr. John J. Thomas of Boston was called into consultation, but no hopes for saving the injured man's life were entertained.

Although his body was paralyzed so that he could move neither hands or feet, Boucher's mind and speech was not impaired and he was able to give a comprehensive and detailed account of the affair at the hearing on Friday morning.

Boucher belonged to Goude, N. H., but had been employed at the Cowles residence for the past eight months. Of late he had been employed as a chauffeur for Mr. John P. N. Chandler who is stopping at the Cowles home.

Downey, the alleged assailant of Boucher, when first arrested was arraigned in the municipal court on the charge of aggravated assault. The case was continued until Saturday, August 14, the respondent being held to $3500 bail for his appearance at that time.

With the death of Boucher, County Solicitor Albert R. Hatch and City Solicitor J. R. Waldron decided to at once change the charge from aggravated assault to that of manslaughter and Downey was arraigned in the municipal court before Judge Ernest I. Guptill at ten o'clock.

He was represented by Attorney Samuel W. Emery who entered a plea of not guilty for his client. Attorney Emery then argued with the court on the degree of manslaughter under

British Steamer Bound to Boston Meets Destruction Off Southern Coast of Ireland--Five Members of Crew Lost

DISREGARDED ORDERS TO STOP

(Special to The Herald)
Washington, July 31.—The Leyland liner Iberian which was torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine off the southern coast of Ireland yesterday, disregarded orders to stop, according to a dispatch received from Consul Frost at Queenstown, to the state department today. The consul's dispatch also stated that an American mulctee named Wile or White died from shock after suffering a superficial wound during the chase.

BOMBARD CHANNEL TOWNS

Paris, July 31.—German aviators bombarded the channel towns of Gravettes and Saint-Pol-sur-Mer early today. At the latter place no damage was done by the German bombs, according to the French war office, but at the former a child was killed. There were no important land or sea engagements during the night.

(Special to The Herald)
London, July 31.—The British steamship Iberian, owned by the Leyland line, was sunk by a German submarine off the southern coast of Ireland on Friday with a loss of five members of the crew.

The Iberian, a ship of 5223 tons, was bound from Liverpool to Boston and was reported to have about thirty Americans aboard. These were stocktenders who on the last eastward voyage of the freighter helped care for a cargo of horses that were brought here for the use of the army. A Lloyd's dispatch received here states that the survivors of the ship were being brought to land by a trawler.

The Iberian, normally a 13-day boat, was due to arrive in Boston on August 10. She left Liverpool on Thursday. The destruction of the Iberian shows that the Germans have adopted a new submarine policy. Formerly the submarines only attacked ships bound for England, but now attacks are being made upon vessels leaving this country.

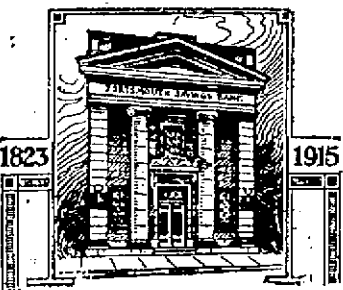

The crew of the Iberian numbered 68. Of these seven were killed and the others landed.

The ship was both shelled and torpedoed by the submarine. The underwater boat, one of the big U type, but no long range gun mounted upon her deck. Shelling proved too slow for the German commander, however, and he fired a torpedo into her.

The Iberian was the first ship carrying a cargo to an American port to be sunk by a German submarine. The original explanation of the German admiral in regard to their submarine warfare was that a blockade had to be established and a war zone declared in order to stop the shipment of war supplies into England. The new policy of the Germans in destroying outward bound vessels, however, indicates that Admiral von Tirpitz has planned a bolder campaign by which he hopes to deplete Great Britain's enormous mercantile commerce.

Two members of the crew were injured so badly that they died after being picked up by a steamer.

It is reported upon excellent authority that the German foreign office has already sounded the United States government on the question and it is believed that the numerous conferences in Berlin held this week between Ambassador Gerard and representatives of the German government have something to do with the matter.

Morley Button Company Forfeit Game After Disputing Umpire

At the end of the second inning in last evening's Sunset League game, Captain Pilgrim of the Morley Button Company ordered his men from the field and the game went to the Y. M. C. A., 1 to 0. What promised to be a fine exhibition of ball was ended when a decision at third by Umpire Hunter, claiming that Heffernan left the base or not before a fly to Gibson in left field was caught, was disputed by the Morley Button players.

This game puts the Y. M. C. A. at the head of the league and the Morley Button Company in third place.

The Game

1st Inning—Marden fanned. Mulholland singled and was out at second, stealing, Harratt to Moser. McPheters hit safe for one base. Wright fanned. No runs.

Pilgrim fled out to Mulholland in center. Able hit to right and Wright muffed the fly. McDonald lined to Shuttlesworth who threw to Brackett for a double play. No runs.

2d Inning—Brackett singled back of short. Shuttlesworth sacrificed him to second and was out at first. Pilgrim hit to Hinton. Thomas was out on a foul fly to Hinton. Gibson hit to center and was safe when Bryan muffed. Brackett scoring. Gibson took second on a passed ball. Jordan was fanned. One run.

Hinton singled over second, and stole second, taking third when Thomas threw wild to prevent the steal. Heffernan attempted an infield hit and the ball went to McPheters. Hinton was ordered home by the coach, and was out at the plate, Mc-

Pheters to Thomas. Moser was safe on Brackett's error, allowing a grounder to get through him. Heffernan advancing to third. Bryan was passed, filling the bases. Mates fled out to Gibson in left and Heffernan was out at third. Gibson to Jordan. No runs.

SUNSET LEAGUE NEWS

The Y. M. C. A. are now at the head of the league, and if they win their game Monday evening from the P. A. C. the pennant is theirs. The game last evening is to be regarded in many ways. And whether Umpire Hunter was right or wrong in his decision of the play on [blank] base, will never be settled.

That play was the subject of most of the discussion along Congress street last night for many hours. In every place of business it was the topic of conversation. Opinion was about evenly divided. Ball players and fans all seeing the play from different angles, told what they thought they saw. But it was a hard proposition to find two who were of the opinion that the man was safe, who saw the play in the same way. Some said that Heffernan was on the bag when the ball was caught. Others said that he stood off the bag, and just as the ball fell into Gibson's hands, he started home. And others said that he didn't start running back to third until Gibson had the ball.

But outside of that, the majority were of the opinion that a mistake was made when the Morley Button Company players were ordered off the field by their manager. One man, and a well-known sportsman at that, said that the only proper thing to have done was to play the game to its end. Then if they had been defeated it would have been the proper course to enter a protest to the directors about the play. He said, "The members of the board are all men who have sufficient honor to decide that case on its merits. If, in their opinion, the Morley Button Company had been wronged they would have righted it. By quitting, they have lost their chances of being the 1916 champions, and I think that they have lost some of the respect that was theirs."

The incident is regrettable and the organization that probably feels worst about it is the Morley Button Company. The members of that team feel that they have been playing a hard game from the start, and although they all admit that they want the pennant, they would have preferred winning the game by batting out the more runs.

They would have preferred losing the game than to have it handed to them the way it was.

A statement was made last evening on pretty good authority that the Morley Button Company intended withdrawing from the league and not playing the final game against the Coal Company. They intend issuing a challenge to the winner of the pennant. A better way would be to play their scheduled game out and take their chances of getting that pennant by winning it. Their chances are still good, even with last evening's game lost.

Monday's game will have a big bearing on the outcome of the war. If the Y. M. C. A. succeed in taking the game from the P. A. C. the pennant goes to them. That the P. A. C. boys are determined to get that game if hard playing and good baseball can do it, is well understood. The game should prove to be one of the best of the season.

WITH THE SPORTS

The majority of fans are inclined to believe that the Chicago clubs are justified. Jacques Fournier at first, Eddie Collins at second, Buck Weaver at short and Russell Blackburn at third, constitute a wonderful quartet, both offensively and defensively.

Collins and Fournier are hitting like fends. Weaver is not a heavy hitter but he has been clubbing the ball at timely moments. Blackburn, a product of Providence R. I., is a fair hitter.

But it is on the defense where the quartet shines with extreme brilliance. The infield is as fast as chain lightning. It is sure on ground balls and works together with the smoothness and precision of watch cogs.

Realizing that the public likes to be amused at times the boxing promoters are talking about Jess Willard-Battling Levinsky match for Labor Day.

A match between Willard and Levinsky just now promises to be the last word in pugilistic baroque. Levinsky is somewhat shy of being six feet tall and he weighs only around 170. Willard is six feet six inches tall and weighs well over 250. Why don't

1-STENGEL 2-WHEAT 3-DAUBERT 4-RUCKER 5-ROBINSON

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 31.—Is this to be another "miracle year" in baseball? It is beginning to look that way just now, with the Brooklyn National league club up with the leaders and fighting desperately to reach the summit of the league. Just now the Dodgers are basking through the "wild and woolly" insensibility of scalp, and if they can continue playing at anywhere near the speed they attained on their last home stand they will bring home many trophies of their hunt. Just a little over a month ago the Dodgers were in the cellar and looked to be hopelessly out of the race. However, when they reached their own stamping ground they took a big brace and climbed from their lowly berth to within a few games of the top. In making this remarkable climb they won twenty-two games out of twenty-nine, losing six and tying one. Their remarkable sport has put unbounded confidence in the players, and they are in the same frame of mind as were the Braves last year when they made their sensational sprint for the gonfalon. If the Braves can keep from "cracking under the strain" or if they can "crack" as did the Braves, then as sure as October rolls around there will be another name added to the membership list of the Miracle Workers' club, of which George Stallings is now the sole occupant, and he will be a certain round gentleman who answers to the name Willard. Here are several of the stars whose work was responsible in a large measure for the Dodgers' wonderful sport.

the promoters frame up a Leach-Cross-Jess Willard match? That would be even funnier than the proposed Levinsky-Willard go.

Johnny Crown who used to wear the bantam crown upon his dome still years for another chance against Kid Williams but in the meantime John is busy gathering in the shekels by real estate operations in Chicago. Johnny says he has about $20,000 left of his ring earnings and by judicious investments has accumulated about $20,000 more.

The old story about Charles Comiskey and Umpire Joe Cantillon has been revived. It goes like this:

Cantillon gave a few raw decisions at the White Sox park one day and the whole town panned him. The next day Joe appeared at the gate with two companions. He wanted the gatekeeper to pass him but the custodian refused.

Just at that point Comiskey passed by inside the gate. Cantillon halted him.

"Hey Commy," he yelled "I've got two friends here with me and I'd like to have them passed through."

Commy looked at Joe then at his two friends and said:

"Sure, bring 'em in. Any fellows who are brave enough to be friends of an umpire deserve to get in free."

Eddie Plank deserves the title of the best left handed pitcher that ever lived. For 15 years the wonderful southpaw was the Athletics' mainstay. For fifteen years he pitched the kind of baseball that helped the Athletics to win pennants, and a number of world titles.

And now in his 41st year and his 16th in baseball, he is the pitching sensation of the Federal League. Cast aside by his old boss he connected with a job in the new league and is back at his old trick of rolling up a huge winning percentage. The most amazing part of Plank's work this year is the fact that he is pitching to batters that are new to him. He hasn't the benefit of the experience gained in other years to aid him. He doesn't know the strength and the weakness of the batters who face him, as he did in the American League. He must learn as he goes. He must pit the old southpaw whip, absolutely unaided against the Federal League clunkers. And he does so successfully.

Plank is one of the very few left handers who has no eccentricities. He has been normal in his conduct, a gentleman on the battlefield and off, and all through the sixteen years of his major league career he has graced the game by his presence.

The last of the Delehanlys has passed from major league view, and for the first time in nearly 25 years no member of the famous baseball family is listed among the big league stars. There were five Delehanly brothers, and all of them trained on the sand lots in Cleveland, and every one of the five found his way into the big show, remaining there long enough to add lustre to the baseball fame of the family.

Ed Delehanly was the first brother to enter the big leagues. He blossomed into a major league star in the late 80's and from then on until 1903 when he met a tragic death by falling from a bridge, he ranked as one of the greatest batsmen the game ever produced. He hung up clouting records that remain to this day.

Tom, was the second brother to play major league baseball. Something like fifteen years ago, a short time before the death of Ed, he landed on the Cleveland team and played a fine game.

Joe Delehanly was the third. He played with St. Louis for a number of years. Jim was the fourth brother to enter the big leagues, and Jim lasted a long time as a major leaguer. He was a star with the Detroit Tigers for many years and ranked as one of the best infielders in the business. In 1914 Jim jumped to the Reds. The other day he was released to the Cleveland League, the minor organization to the Reds.

Frank was the fifth Delehanly brother to play in the majors. He was with Cleveland for a time and later played with the Yankees.

And there are no more Delehanlys. The last has passed beyond the big league horizon and the name that was once the most famous in baseball, is now but a memory.

SATURDAY AUGUST 7 WILL BE HOSPITAL DAY

At a meeting held in St. John's Chapel yesterday afternoon by the chaplains and directors of the Portsmouth Hospital, it was decided to have Saturday, August 7 as Hospital Day in Portsmouth. The meeting was well attended and much enthusiasm was shown over the prospects.

In a statement made last evening to a representative of the paper by one of the ladies, she said:

"We are hoping that the weather may be pleasant and that everyone will help to make the day a success. It is the one day in all the year when we appeal to everyone to give us a donation, a good large one, if possible, or a small one if need be, but some donation from everybody. Our hospital is doing splendid work. Our capable and devoted superintendent and nurses are giving the best years of their lives in caring for our sick and afflicted. The work is growing and our hospital was never more needed than now.

"Supplies of all kinds are more and more expensive and money is necessary to keep up its efficiency, so please, one and all, take advantage of Hospital Day and help us."

BOTHER TOURISTS BY FORGING OF U. S. PASSPORTS

Washington, July 30.—German forgers of American passports are impeding all real Americans in allied territory, it was confidently admitted here today by officials in close touch with conditions in the belligerent European countries.

It was for this reason, it was stated, that the state department considered itself justified in taking the matter up with the Berlin foreign office Thursday. It was said the subject was being handled with extreme care to avoid offending Germany.

If confessions by alleged German spies, arrested by the allies, are to be accepted as true, German officialdom—not alone irresponsible individuals—has been involved in bogus passport manufacturing. It was admitted, however, that its source makes testimony doubtful.

Concerning Thursday's long talk between Ambassador Gierhard and German Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg, no details were made public.

The conviction was growing that England's supplement to its note concerning the orders in council, made concessions to America relative to the latter's trade with neutral European countries, though whether it applied equally to east-bound and west-bound shipments was uncertain. Strong hopes were still expressed that it would be of a nature to facilitate a settlement with Germany.

FATAL ACCIDENT AT CONEY ISLAND RESULTS IN CLOSER SUPERVISION OF SCENIC RAILWAYS

WRECKED CONEY ISLAND COASTER

Following the accident at which three persons were killed and several others injured when a scenic car of the Howery and Jones' walk, Coney Island, jumped the track forty feet in the air, tipped over and sent most of its occupants huddling down on the heads of pleasure seekers in the street, there was a closer supervision of the concessions at the island. In order to provide thrills for the great army of visitors at the big pleasure resort some of the concessionaires are said to have exceeded the speed limit. In the accompanying illustration is shown the wrecked car just after the accident.

BOSTON LETTER

Boston, July 30.—"The oldest and most reliable stores in this city have built up their business on honest advertising, backed up by good merchandise and proper service," said Harry A. Towne, advertising manager of Collins & Pabst, in a lecture on advertising at the Boston University summer school. "Newspaper advertising," he continued, "is the easiest and least expensive way of bringing a story to the attention of a large number of people. The character of a retail store is usually reflected in the nature of its advertising policy. Standardized style of copy usually makes a lasting impression upon the minds of the public. We seem to get the best returns by concentrating upon one article at a time, stating our facts briefly and wherever possible buying position. I believe strongly in newspaper publicity."

Boston, July 30.—A report to the mayor from Fire Commissioner Grady states that, although the total number of alarms for the first six months of this year was considerably in excess of the number for the corresponding six months of last year, the loss from fire, as estimated by his district chiefs, was nearly forty per cent less than last year. The total number of alarms for the first six months of 1914 was 2896; for the corresponding months of 1915, 3315. The loss in 1914 was $1,960,770, in 1915 (estimated) $1,092,635.

Boston, July 30.—Word has been received from Governor Walsh by his private secretary, Thomas H. Connolly, that the Massachusetts delegation is in the Yellowstone Park, after a visit at Salt Lake City. The governor sent no word as to his possible candidacy for a third term. State Treasurer Charles L. Burdell, who accompanied the party at his own expense, left the party at Salt Lake City and is now on his way to Boston.

Boston, July 30.—Boston merchants and members of the Chamber of Commerce have been asked to discuss the question of whether or not price cutting is conducive to good business, and whether or not such practice is justifiable. The questionnaire, which has been sent to the members, has been prepared by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, and when the query is completed the business men in the United States will have been sounded as to whether or not price cutting in the whole sale and retail trade lines are favored. President Elmer J. Bliss of the Chamber and head of the Regal Shoe Company, said: "I am not in favor of price cutting. I am not thoroughly conversant with the subject so as to be able to make any extended remarks beyond that deep price cutting would create unhealthy competition."

Boston, July 30.—That it is impossible to train civilians to be capable company commanders in six weeks at a summer camp, was the assertion made by Captain A. L. Conger, U. S. A., to the Harvard summer school students. The speaker further added that without degrading the place of the summer camps, the government did not receive an adequate return in efficiently trained men for the money expended, and declared that artificiality and superficiality in military training lead only to disaster.

Boston, July 30.—Chairman of Republican city committee of the state, at a meeting at the headquarters of the Republican state committee, reported in detail to Chairman Edward A. Thurston on the organization work that has been started for the fall campaign. A line of organization work has been outlined and the committees have checked the progress made along these lines.

ANOTHER STRANGE NAVY YARD FIRE

Norfolk, Va., July 30.—A few minutes' fire extinguished a small fire in the navy yard here about 1:00 a.m. How it started he didn't know, but it was a paint barrel, the commandant said, deriding the foreign spy theory. The damage was trifling.

MAY PROVE FATAL.

When Will Portsmouth People Learn the Importance of It?

Backache is only a simple thing at first. But if you find it's from the kidneys; That serious kidney troubles may follow: That drapery or Bright's disease may be the fatal end. You will be glad to know the following experience.

"It's the statement of a Portsmouth citizen. James Pickles, 11 Burkett St., Portsmouth, says: 'I had kidney trouble for several years. I suffered from dull pains in my back and often I had such acute twinges across my loins that I could scarcely move. The kidney secretions contained sediment and were so frequent in passage that I was obliged to get up several times at night. I was unable to find relief until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Phillips' Pharmacy. They helped me from the first and continued use entirely cured me.' Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Pickles had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

NOT CONSIDERING EXPENSE Daniels Willing to Increase Navy and Expects Public Ready to Pay

Washington, July 30.—Secretary Daniels said yesterday that he was preparing to recommend increases for a larger navy in accordance with the programme of the Administration for a greater national defence without regard to the condition of the revenues of the United States. He is confident, after sounding public opinion, that the people desire a larger navy and are willing to pay for it.

Mr. Daniels also let it be known that he will be ready to discuss a greater naval programme with President Wilson by the middle of August, when he hopes the recommendations of the general board will be in concrete form. He will urge the adoption of the programme as the minimum for Congress to decide upon, hoping that the Senate and the House will see fit to increase it. President Wilson in calling for estimates from the members of the Cabinet did not ask the secretaries of the navy and war department to make them as low as possible considering the revenues available. This, however, was done a year ago. The opinion prevails that in the question of national defence revenues should be of secondary consideration; within a reasonable figure, and that the increase required should be decided upon without regard for a sugar tariff, a war tax and the like. The guesses on the increased appropriations which will be asked range from $50,000,000 to $150,000,000. Members of Congress who voted before for a single battleship, he found, now are willing to back large increases.

lodging house at 159 Oxford street, who was shot by her former sweetheart, Frank Snow, who, after shooting her, killed himself, is out of danger, according to the doctors attending her.

Snow, who was 35 years old, became angry when his attempts to bring about a reconciliation proved unsuccessful. He went to the lodging house Thursday night and, although he had been barred from the house, managed to get to the kitchen, where Mrs. Hall and her sister were talking. After a few words Snow whipped out the gun and fired a shot at the landlady, the bullet striking her in the shoulder. Mrs. Hall ran and Snow followed, but at the head of the stairs turned the gun on himself.

FINE BILL AT THE PORTSMOUTH THEATRE

Rome and Kirby, the two men working at the Portsmouth Theatre in the double act proved last evening that they were about the cleverest dancers in their line in the business today. All of their steps were new and the most difficult were executed with an ease that was remarkable. Their entire number was marked by dancing steps that were almost wonderful, and the whole was mixed up with enough comedy to break any monotony. Their singing was a great deal better than the average dancing team has to offer. The Holmes Trio, three men, pleased the patrons of the popular play house, also. The best part of their act was in the fact that they didn't attempt to sing anything that was beyond them. Their harmony was simple and pleasing. Their three solo numbers, with the trio choruses were well rendered, and the act was given nearly applause. The Palace Quintette scored a big hit as they offered a program that was appreciated to the fullest extent. This act was composed of three men and two women and each are artists. The bill, although composed of three musical acts, is anything but monotonous, as each of the acts is vastly different from the others. The bill is a very strong one, one that will please all of the patrons.

Trading At Home.

The sense and propriety of trading at home have come to be pretty well understood by most communities, and yet there are many individuals who imagine that they can do better in some matters by going away from home to buy, and it is quite possible that in some cases they do. So far as this is true it places a responsibility upon the merchants and producers, who have no right to complain of people taking their trade out of town in cases where this results in an actual saving.

But in the large sense there is no need of the people of any prosperous town going away from home to trade. The home merchants are usually in a position to do as well by them as any others can, and are more than anxious to do it, for as business men they realize more keenly than the average individual the value of keeping the money of a town in the town.

In one of the smaller New England cities there is just now a concerted movement to induce the people to do their trading at home, so far as possible, and the question of bread is at the front. There are numerous bakeries in the city, from all of which good bread is being turned out every day, but some of the people think they can buy better bread that is made elsewhere, and the result is that a considerable market for out of town bread is found there. An effort is now being made to keep this trade at home, and that the bakers must meet the conditions squarely is shown by a newspaper statement in connection with the movement, which is that "many find the outside bread quite as good as that baked at home, and that the home bakers should do all in their power to make first-class bread."

Before people can properly be urged to trade at home they must be assured that they can do as well there as they can anywhere else. With such assurance few people will go away from home to trade, aside from those who get in the habit of imagining that they can get better goods and more for their money in some other town.

But those people are in the vast minority in every community. Most men and women prefer to trade at home, both for convenience and the fact that it is better for the town that they should do this. The larger the home trade the better are the merchants enabled to meet and satisfy all demands, both as to quality and prices, and consequently the encouragement of home trading is always in order. It rests with the merchants to meet the competition offered by other towns, and it is clearly for the interest of the people to spend their money in their home towns when the offerings there are as good as are to be found elsewhere.

It is now claimed by some medical experts that fumigation is not nearly so important or efficacious as it has been considered. For years the fumigation of rooms in which there have been cases of contagious diseases has been considered imperative as a safeguard to health, and now it is said that "slowly the doctors have come to doubt the value of fumigation." One of the striking characteristics of this age is that in many things the science of today is the humbug of tomorrow.

It is claimed that large quantities of ice cream cones are made in New York under unsanitary conditions and the probability is that the suspicion is well grounded. The health authorities are looking into the matter and it is to be hoped that the abuses found will be speedily eliminated. The ice cream cone is a favorite luxury among the children and should be clean and pure in every respect.

Secretary Redfield seeks light and not heat in the investigation of the Eastland horror at Chicago. This is a very proper attitude, especially in view of the report that politics is already apparent in connection with some of the movements. If a matter of this sort cannot be handled without political interference it is about time to call a halt and find out where the country is at.

The rush of railroad travel in the vacation season is nothing like what it used to be and the explanation is found in the automobile, by which the change has been brought about. Little short of revolutionary are some of the results following the introduction of this wonderful machine.

Some of the backers of presidential candidates from small states have raised the cry, "we are to select a man for the presidency, and not a geographical expression." And yet the "pivotal states" will continue to have influence in national conventions.

Judging from the volume of exports, the war is bringing to the United States what it has long been seeking, the markets of the world. The balance in favor of this country last year was more than $1,000,000,000.

The "globe trotter" still continues to make his appearance occasionally, but he long since ceased to be a novelty, and in these stirring times the average person has little use for him, his story or his photograph.

CURRENT OPINION

Japan Seeks to Control China to Gain Supremacy in the Pacific.

The ambition of the Japanese statesman is to see his country develop into what accurately may be spoken of as the England of the East. In order to become the England of the East she must control China. She considers China her great need and is so near to the exhaustion of her resources that she realizes herself to be in no position to contest with the United States the supremacy of the Pacific unless she gains control of her great neighbor.

The United States government has but to intimate to Japan that she will be expected to observe strictly all treaty obligations in spirit as well as in form and that no subterfuge will be countenanced, and it is certain that Japan will take heed, for such a position upon our part would have the support of all the western powers.

In my humble opinion it is our duty at this juncture to take some such step and thus save China from Japan and save Japan from herself.—By Leobena R. Willey, Former Judge of the United States Court for China.

POPE PLEADS FOR WAR'S END

Asks Heads of Belligerent Nations to Unite in Peace Move.

London, July 30.—The Rome correspondent of Reuters Telegram company says that in tonight's issue of the Observatore Romano, official organ of the Vatican, there appears a letter addressed by Pope Benedict to the heads of the belligerent countries inviting all friends of peace to unite with him in his desire to terminate the war. In this letter which was written on the anniversary of the outbreak of the war, July 28, the Pope asks why there should not be initiated a direct or indirect exchange of views "in an endeavor to arrive at arrangements so that all should be contented." The correspondent quotes from the letter as follows:

"It is our firm determination to devote every activity to reconciliation of the people now engaged in this fratricidal struggle. Today on the sad anniversary of this tremendous conflict, there issues from our heart an earnest prayer for a cessation of the war. It must not be said that this conflict cannot be settled without armed violence. Put away mutual desire for degradation and reflect that nations do not die; it humbles and oppresses they prepare to retaliate, by transmitting from generation to generation hatred and desire for revenge."

"Why should not a direct or an indirect exchange of views be initiated in an endeavor if possible to arrange aspirations so that all should be contented? This is our cry for peace and we invite all friends of peace to unite with us in our endeavor to determine this war and establish an empire of right resolving henceforth to differences not by the sword but by equity and justice."

"We impart our apostolic benediction also to those not belonging to the Roman church."

SOME WARRIOR.

Old Veteran Holds the Enemy in Check on Vaughan, St.

An old soldier named Bill who claims Washington as his home was in great trim on Vaughan street on Friday. With a big cane, and more medals hanging to him than Farragut had in the battle of Mobile Bay, he went back to the dark days of '61 and defied a whole Confederate cavalry command, which he laughed away coming up Deer street. The cavalry proved to be several Italian laborers and he forced them to a hasty retreat. He then pulled off a sabre drill and several other war maneuvers that brought fame to him at Appomattox. Before the enemy could muster reinforcements, Officer Anderson forced Bill to hold the white flag and declare the battle off. Bill was on his dignity when the can came to, and he wanted to know where the police force got off in this. As usual, he had been where a cop would not live a minute, but that did not prevent him from marching company front to the refrigerator. He kicked all along the march, kicked all night in the city camp and was kicking when the police got him on the noon train today for Bellingham.

ADVERTISING TO SAVE LIFE

An Eastern railroad is using newspaper advertising to cut down accidents. Its lines have many grade crossings over roads much frequented by automobilists. In years past these crossings have been the scene of some serious disasters. The newspaper advertising is especially directed to automobilists and it impresses on them the need of care. It shows that this railroad believes automobilists read newspapers. It also believes it will cut down its item of damages to a figure that will make the advertising profitable. If you have a message the newspaper's advertising columns is the place to put it.

SNIPPERS KILL TWO AMERICANS IN HAITI FIGHT

Natives Make Night Attack on Port au Prince—Admiral Caperton Sends Brief Report Describing Death of Brooklyn and Norfolk Marines.

Washington, July 30.—Two American bluejackets were killed last night in an attack by natives on Port au Prince, Haiti, held by Rear Admiral Caperton with 400 men from the cruiser "Washington." The attacking party was beaten off without having approached further than the outskirts of the city and order was maintained in the city itself. No sailors were wounded and the loss of the attacking forces was not reported. The dead: William Gompers—Seaman, of Brooklyn; "Gason" S. Whitehurst—Ordinary seaman, of Norfolk, Va.

Reinforcements had been ordered to Haiti before word of the fighting was received. The battleship Connecticut will sail from Philadelphia tomorrow with a regiment of marines, numbering 500 men. The navy transport Hancock now being overhauled at Philadelphia will also go to Haiti it is said, although it is not known what force she will take south.

Admiral Caperton's message gave few details of the fighting. It showed, however, that he had been warned of the intention of the Haitians to attack the city and early in the evening Capt. R. F. Beach of the "Washington," commanding ashore, moved his men out to the edge of the city to meet them, leaving strong guards to maintain order in town. The Haitian soldiers and civilians in the city were alarmed yesterday to prevent snipping from the houses.

Attack from Brush.—The attack came at eight o'clock last night, the bluejacket battalion bearing the brunt of the fighting. From the brush beyond the last houses, snippers opened fire on them. The fire was returned and the attackers driven off but not before Gompers and Whitehurst had been killed.

The following summary of Admiral Caperton's terse report was given out tonight at the navy department.

Admiral Caperton reports from Port au Prince that owing to a report that the town would likely be attacked during the night he made dispositions of his forces for defense at 5 p. m. Attacks from south at 8 p. m. Sniping from brush in outskirts of town. Two killed in the seaman battalion, none wounded. Successfully repulsed attack. Maintained quiet and order in city throughout the night.

In his first message after his arrival at Port au Prince when the marines and bluejackets encountered a slight resistance on landing, Admiral Caperton asked for an additional regiment of marines. The men were needed he said to police the city and surrounding districts adequately.

He suggested that the additional marines be sent on the cruiser North Carolina or Tennessee, fast ships indicating that he expected some difficulties. The vessels were not available and the department ordered the battleship Connecticut at the Philadelphia navy yard made ready to sail tomorrow. The Connecticut was taking on stores tonight. The department issued this statement:

"At the request of Rear Admiral Caperton, now in command of forces exercising military control of Port au Prince, Haiti, for the protection of lives and property in the city, the following reinforcements have been sent him:

Reinforcements Sent.—The U. S. S. Connecticut, Captain E. H. Durell, commanding, has been directed to proceed to Port au Prince about 500 in number will be embarked on the Connecticut and will be under the command of Col. P. K. Cole, U. S. M. C., upon the arrival of the Connecticut at Port au Prince the marines will be disembarked and the Connecticut will return for necessary maneuvers with the Atlantic fleet."

Secretary Daniels felt no great apprehension about the situation. The extra force was sent primarily, he said to permit short hours of guard duty.

Disarmament of the town yesterday was directed after a conference between a committee of safety organized among the citizens of Port au Prince, American navy officers and the American charge d'affaires. The committee of safety is the defacto government. And negotiations by the state department will be addressed to this committee inasmuch as there appears to be no other form of government at the present time.

It is practically assured that during the occupation of Port au Prince efforts to negotiate a treaty with Haiti for the administration of that country's financial affairs by the United States as was done in San Domingo, will be renewed. It is the purpose of this government to include in such a treaty a provision similar to the Platt amendment in the Cuban treaty where which Downey should be charged. He claimed that it should be the second degree, which was valuable in the lower court. Judge Guilford stated the writ did not specify any degree and that Downey would be arraigned as charged for manslaughter.

On the request of County Attorney Hatch the case was continued until Saturday, August 7, in order that the state could make further preparations relative to witnesses and facts connected with the case. Downey was held without bail till that date and sent back to jail.

Attorney Emery made it known that he would apply at once to Judge Pike or Judge Kivel of the superior court with a petition asking that Downey be released on reasonable bail.

On Friday afternoon Boucher made a dying statement, which was practically the same as the one he made in the morning before Judge Guilford. His final words regarding the affair that caused his death were heard by County Attorney A. R. Hatch, City Solicitor J. R. Waldron and Clerk of Municipal Court, S. R. Freeman, witnesses to the statement. Boucher was unable to sign the statement owing to the condition of his arm, and two disinterested persons, P. A. Belden and Miss Mary G. Ramsay, superintended the signing of the statement.

run away, joined the Turkish army and at 17 became a colonel of Bashli Bazonk.

While serving in the Turkish army he was ordered, at one time, to exterminate a village of Armenian Jews. This he felt he could not do, but he dared not refuse to obey the boy, as that would have cost him his life. He therefore arranged to march his regiment slowly through the mountains, and finally sent ahead one of his highest officers to warn the villagers of their danger. When the soldiers arrived at the village they naturally found it forsaken. As the Chief himself said: "Not even a stray cat was to be found." They then returned and reported that the orders of the boy had been carried out to the letter. The boy, because of former inclinations on the part of the Chief to show mercy to all, felt that his orders had in reality not been carried out, and he sent couriers to determine the truth of the matter. They found no signs of carnage, and so reported to the boy.

They boy determined to punish the disobedient colonel, but the chief had become so popular with his troops, and was so revered by them, because of his claim of descent from the Prophet, through his mother, who was a descendant of the old and the Mohammedan Moors, who once ruled Spain, that the boy did not dare harm him publicly, so he was literally kidnapped and placed in a "bottle jail." From this he would never have escaped alive had not the regiment mutilated and demanded his return. He was in that awful prison for three days and was nearly exhausted when he was liberated. He was ill for many weeks after this and later he went to Damascus. Here he was recognized as the one who had saved the village, and the Jews rewarded him by presenting him with the medal of which he is most fond, and which he declared will go into the tomb with him, "The Star of David." This he prizes above all the medals he has won, and they are many, because it was given him for an act in saving life rather than in taking it.

Leaving Damascus the Chief went into Africa on an exploration tour. Here he met the King of Dahomey, who made him a chief in that country and appointed him general-in-chief of his army. It is interesting to note that in this army were 5000 Amazons, who fought shoulder to shoulder with the men. He conducted the campaign against the French, but was overpowered.

Later he enlisted in the Russian army, and became a colonel of Cossacks. He fought in the Russo-Japanese war, but at the battle of Mukden was so badly wounded that he was incapacitated for further military service. He was given the Russian order of the Cross of St. George, which is the highest honor for valor in the Russian army.

Since coming to America he has been made Honorary High Chief for life of the Society of the "Sons and Daughters of Scotland." This society has recently received its charter under the laws of Massachusetts. It has secretaries in Dundee and Glasgow, as well as an American office in New York city. Its main object is to know and report the names of those who are leaving Scotland for America, so that they may be met and spoken to by name when they reach these shores.

He is working and lecturing in the interests of Home Rule for Scotland, which he feels will be the outcome of using modern co-operative plans in the development of the Clans.

On Monday he spoke before the Green Acre Conference under the auspices of the "Pineapple Pine" on the "Highlanders of Scotland," portraying their lives and ideals, their folk-lore and modern poetry, bringing clearly to the minds of all the beauty, the ruggedness and hospitality of his people.

On Wednesday he spoke at the weekly reception held at the Birkenhead. He here outlined the plan of co-operation which he hopes to establish, first among his own clan and then later, in the whole of Scotland, whereby the people will work for the good of all, finally establish local legislatures, and prove to the world that the Highlanders are still a live and vital force in the world.

Chief Seumas, in company with his friend, Mr. Philip Adams, a well-known portrait artist of 91 Chestnut street, Boston, has been stopping at Green Acre Inn, and the conferences are looking forward to another visit from both these gentlemen later in the season.

Among the recent arrivals at the inn are Miss Marian Jack of Montreal, Mrs. Bartlett of Boston, Mr. G. Brown of Pittsburgh, Mrs. Ann Walestrutt of Medford, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. William H. Randall at the Ole Bull cottage.

SUBSTANTIAL AGREEMENT ON RAILROAD BILL

Formal Approval Expected to Take Place Monday and Plan Submitted to the Governor.

That a substantial agreement has been reached by the several interests involved in the Boston and Maine situation and that formal approval of the plan agreed to will be given at a meeting at the North station, Boston on Monday is the assertion of men who are prominent in railroad circles and deeply interested in the solution of the Boston and Maine problem.

The work of coming to an understanding has been proceeding most satisfactorily throughout the week, the various representatives of the leased lines displaying great activity. That these labors have been crowned with success is the assertion now made by those who intimate knowledge of the situation.

If these prognostications prove accurate and Monday's meeting produces tangible evidence of an agreement between the two interests, which have been in conflict and thus prevented action, it is expected the measures adopted by the Boston and Maine representatives and the representatives of the leased lines will be presented at an early date to Governor Spaulding, accompanied by a request that the chief executive issue an early call for a special session of the law-makers.

That the governor will act favorably upon this request, provided he is satisfied the proposal properly safeguards the public interests, is a foregone conclusion, since he has said he stands ready to aid the reorganization of the road when a satisfactory measure was produced upon which all parties in interest agreed.

New Hampshire will feel an acute interest in the outcome of Monday's meeting. Local business men are keen to see this Boston and Maine tangle straightened out, and the road put upon a solid financial footing.

WILL SACRIFICE WARSAW TO KEEP ARMY INTACT

Russia Placing Time Against German Preparedness--British in Mine Warfare

London, July 30.—Russia ostensibly has set the stage for the evacuation of Warsaw. She suggests that for the present she must put space and time into the scales against German preparedness. Until such time as she can make good the supplies promised her through the Dardanelles and Japan, she will, it is said, refuse decisive battle. According to Petrograd despatches a general retirement to the Kovno-Grodno-Prest-Litovsk-Kovel-Rovno line is likely to take place immediately. Always, however, it must be remembered that the cables and wireless may be used in the strategy of war. It is barely possible that Duke Nicholas is using them as a lure and that he is preparing to throw the Germans back from Warsaw for a fourth time. But the conditions on the surface greatly favor the Teutonic armies, and if the despatches are to be trusted, the fall of Warsaw may be said to be imminent. The present problem on this basis is to move the Russian armies intact to their new defensive line, threatened as they are from the south by the Austro-Germans and more seriously from the north by the German forces which have swept through Poland and are aiming at the railway from Warsaw to Petrograd. This latter menace the British press admits is imminent, and the hope in the allied countries now is not for the safety of Warsaw but for the continued cohesion of the Russian army. The Warsaw post office already has been shifted to some point to the eastward, the population has been warned to remain calm and presumably for days Russian troops have been stripping the city of everything of military value. German aviators are hovering over the city, and according to German advice, plans have been completed for the triumphant entrance of the German emperor accompanied by his consort. With Warsaw captured, whether or not it proves a conquest of lasting strategic advantage, a great wave of enthusiasm will sweep over Germany and Austria-Hungary.

EVACUATION HAS BEGUN

The Russians have begun the evacuation of Warsaw, with the removal of all public documents and treasures. Banks are sending their gold to Petrograd, and by tomorrow it is believed the city will have been denuded of all government stores likely to be of use to the Germans. Such was the substance of advices reaching here today. Many prominent citizens, with their families have left the city, and all outgoing trains have been carrying other refugees for several days past. The military authorities are concentrating trains for the removal of troops. The work of removing the heavy guns on the great fortress of Novo Georgiewsk, which guards Warsaw's northwestern flank, is being pushed. The principal military booty which the Germans hope to capture is not in Warsaw itself, which is not a fortress, but in Novo Georgiewsk. A considerable part of Novo Georgiewsk's defenses remain intact until the last moment, but the Germans can be held back until the Russian army gets away. Preparations are being made to blow up the buildings that cannot be used as the last body of Russian troops retreats. If these arrangements do not miscarry the booty that will fall to the Germans will be comparatively small. Germans at Gated.

Germans in overwhelming numbers are at the gates of the capital, and despatches both from the city itself and from Petrograd say that further resistance would be unwise.

THE best Pneumatic Tire is only as strong as its weakest part. Strengthening its strongest parts is as useless as putting a fifth wheel on a wagon.

Yet this is often done to provide "Selling-feature" and "Talking Point."

The weakest part of every Pneumatic Tire is its Walls or Sides, not its Tread, its Cotton Fabric or "Stocking," not its Rubber "Sole."

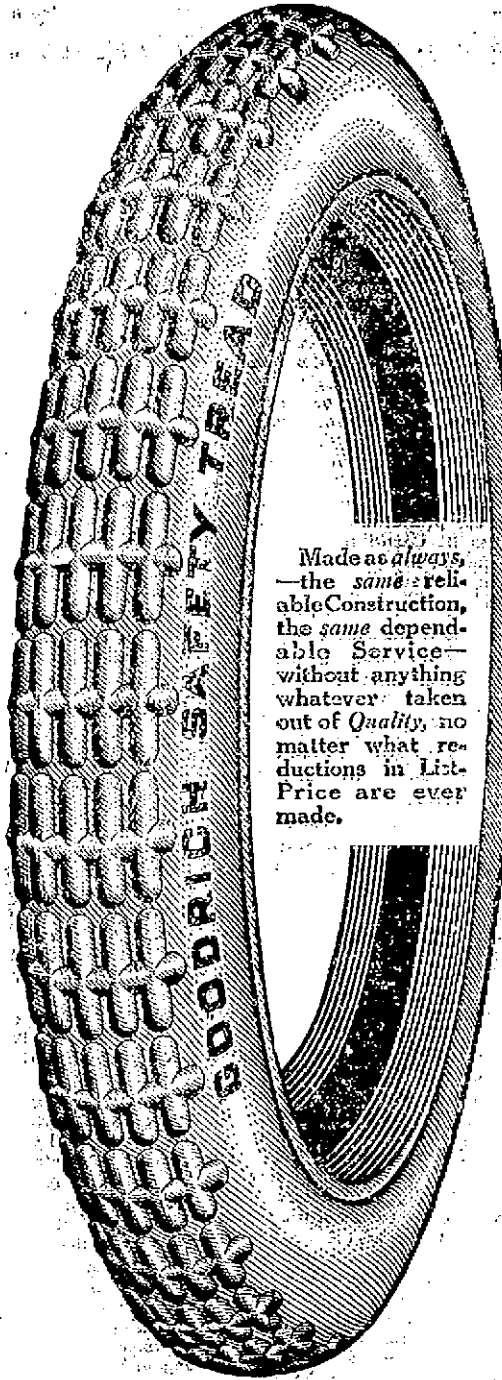

No price would be too high to pay for a material that, replacing Cotton in the Walls of Pneumatic Tires, would last as long as the Goodrich Rubber Tread could be made to wear.

Neither Silk, nor Linen, nor any other known fabric yet discovered is so good, for this purpose, as Cotton, and choice long-fibered Cotton is the best material that money can buy for Tire Fabric.

WE use nothing less in Goodrich Tires, and test every foot of it up to 380 lbs. to the Square Inch, before we percolate it with the most adhesive Rubber Compound ever made for this purpose.

We then shape this rubberized fabric into Tires, with scrupulous care to have the tension on each square inch of fabric precisely the same, that tension being controlled by a machine as sensitive as the eye, and infinitely more precise than the handwork of the most skilled operative could make it.

To do this work we have the most highly-trained men in the Rubber Industry, trained in the Precision that practice and our 45-year EXPERIENCE make perfect.

Made as always, —the same reliable Construction, the same dependable Service—without anything whatever taken out of Quality, no matter what reductions in List-Price are ever made.

GOODRICH FAIR-LISTED TIRES

RUSSIANS STRIVE TO EVACUATE WARSAW WITH ARMIES INTACT

London, July 30.—The Russians now are facing the problem of evacuating Warsaw and the surrounding country without losing their armies, while the Austro-German forces are making a supreme effort to get across their line of retreat. The Teutons are said to have met with partial success in their attempt, a Berlin report this evening stating that Field Marshal Von Mackensen resuming the offensive had reached the Chelm-Lublin railway about midway between those two cities and that southeast of this, as far as the Bug river, the Russian front had been shaken.

The success of General Von Mackensen in getting across this railway after having been virtually stopped by the Russian counter-attack denies at least one line of retreat to the Russians who might still be between him and Warsaw, and also places the Germans in a position to move against the Bug river front should this be decided upon.

British military circles however, refuse to believe that Grand Duke Nicholas, commander-in-chief of the Russian forces has not provided for all contingencies or that he was not quite sure of the safety of his troops before indicating to the world that he had decided to take up a new line. Indeed the news contained in the Berlin official statement that the Germans have crossed the Vistula river southeast of Warsaw between the Pilica river and Kozienice, leads the military writers to the belief that the Russians already have fallen back in this region and that perhaps even the fortress of Ivangorod has been left to its fate.

There is no news of the situation on the Nerw river or of General Von Mackensen's wider out-flanking movement in Kovno province. However, the opinion is expressed here that as the German plans contemplate a series of attacks rather than a simultaneous one it is likely that they are waiting for Field Marshal Mackensen to reach some previously arranged position before they resume their attacks.

According to dispatches received here the country around Warsaw which the Russians are leaving to the invaders has been put to the torch, while the city itself has been denuded of everything that might be of use to the Germans if it falls in their hands. It may even be some days before the Teutons occupy the Polish capital, for the Russians are fighting more than a rear guard action.

In fact they are still delivering very heavy blows at their opening and they are gaining some local successes particularly on the Nerw and southeast of Chelm, where they are opposing the efforts of the Austrians to get across the Bug river. However, military critics say that these local successes will not affect the Russian plan of falling back to a shorter and stronger front.

As soon as the present operations against Russia are concluded whether or not they succeed in destroying any large part of the Russian army, it is expected that the Germans will turn to the west, a movement which however, will take a couple of months at least. It will therefore be a race between the Teutonic forces and the British as to which side shall make the offensive in France, where the situation remains as it has been for weeks past except in Alsace, where the French continue their attacks on the positions protecting Munster. There has been sharp fighting here, the French advance converging on Munster from the north and from Metzeral to the southeast of Munster valley in which town stands on the open road to Colmar.

Bad weather is again interfering with the operations in the Austro-Italian theatre.

TAGUE PROTESTS OUTSIDE MEN

Boston, July 30.—Congressman Tague of Charlestown today announced he had protested to Postmaster General Burleson against the recent appointment of Supt. Vandervort of the New England railway mail system.

"It is about time," said Tague, "that the post office authorities stopped bringing in men outside of New England for responsible posts here. Van-

But,—notwithstanding all this,—the FABRIC is the part of the Tire which goes first.

Because the sides of the Tire do most of the work in running,—bending and stretching a million times an hour, in scores of different directions.

This bending of the sides causes Friction between the layers of Canvas working against each other,—Friction causes Heat—the Heat over-cures and dries out the Rubber Adhesive between layers, which then separate from each other, in spots, the threads weakening or wearing out chafing against each other.

Then you have, in due time, the incipient blow-out, or other form of Tire-Death.

PUT more layers of Fabric than we do in the walls, to strengthen them, and the friction increases, with faster deterioration of the Rubber through the greater heat engendered.

Put fewer layers, and the walls would not be strong enough to carry the load of the Car.

So there you are—Mr. Tire User! Why put MORE layers of Fabric in the Walls of the Tire than will properly carry the load, when each additional layer is an additional developer of that FRICTION-HEAT which is to Tires what Old Age is to Man?

THAT is the reason we build, in the Goodrich Tire, a carefully BALANCED Tire, emulating the famous example of "The Deacon's One-Hoss Shay" in which "the Silks were just as strong as the Thills and the Thills as strong as the floor."

The Maximum Fabric efficiency and THEN,—the rest of the Tire built up to that.

Result,—The most RESILIENT Tire that can be made with Fabric Walls,—at the fairest price per Mile of performance.

Why pay more for any Tire?

U. S. WANTS TO GET FOOD THROUGH INTO MEXICO

Washington, July 30.—Responses from the Mexican military factions to urgent representations by the United States government that they allow food supplies to reach the starving people of Mexico City were today awaited by officials here. Identical notes addressed to Generals Carranza, Villa and Zapata demanded that the railroad line from Vera Cruz to Mexico City be kept open for the transportation of food supplies. These faction leaders are in control of one part or other of the road. The demand was made upon humanitarian grounds.

The despatch of the notes followed the receipt by Secretary Lansing of a communication from Charles J. O'Connor, in charge of the Red Cross relief work in Mexico City. He pictured conditions in the Mexican capital as more chaotic than ever, and said people are actually dying of starvation, despite the fact that they have money with which to buy food.

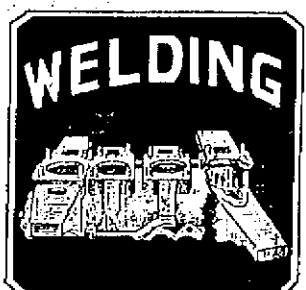

The notes were sent last night to American representatives at Vera Cruz, Torreon and Mexico City, for transmission to the faction leaders. The action of the United States is a forerunner of a more definite step soon in the form of a final demand that the heads of the warring factions settle their differences and restore peace in the southern republic.

The gravity of the situation has been added to as the result of the assault on Allan Mallory, an American, near Puebla, and the tramping upon the American flag by Zapata troops a few days ago. The incident was reported to the state department in a message from Vera Cruz. An investigation has been ordered.

He was held under $500 bail to await the action of the federal grand jury.

The names of seven lodgers, two drunks and two held for safe keeping appeared on the blotter at midnight.

It is hoped as many as can will attend and take this opportunity of making their Communion, as it is uncertain when the rector can arrange for another service of this nature in the prison. All who attend are requested to bring their Prayer Books and Hymnals.

Any person who has been baptized since the present rector has been in charge can now receive a small blessed cross by applying to the rector, as he has secured a number of them for this purpose.

Any man who wishes to join the League of the Sacred Name, for the safe-guarding of the sacredness of the Savior's Name, may receive a membership card and the small cross of the league by applying to the rector.

Any baptized man, no matter what his religious affiliation, who is willing to sign the pledge card and pay a membership fee of twenty-five cents towards the expenses of the league, is eligible for membership; and it is hoped that many outside of those directly connected with St. John's Parish will join the league.

The Junior Auxiliary will meet at Mrs. Hovey's, on State street, Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

Now that the Sunday school is suspended for the summer, the people are urged to send or bring their children to the 10:30 service at the church on Sunday morning, as the rector gives a short talk to the children, and wishes to have as many of them present as may be.

PORTSMOUTH BOY SCOUTS BREAK CAMP

Troop No. 1 Ends Successful
Week of Camp Life at Newington.

The summer camp of Troop No. 1, B. S. A., ended Friday night. In spite of the inclemency of the weather the boys have enjoyed every minute of their camp life.

The following boys together with Attorney H. M. Smith, scoutmaster of the troop, and Assistant Scoutmaster, Wilfred Hewitt were members of the camping party: Nelson Pringle, Earl Seckins, Edwin Mitchell, Everett Butler, William Clark, Richard Loring, Charles Norton, Lawrence Hewitt, Wylie Brewster, Donald Moon, Omer Kamenau, Samuel Madlock, John Seybolt, Walter Grey, George Bailey, Malcolm Herbert, Roscoe Foust, Henry Margeson, Philip Hayes, Charles Sise, Calvin Bartlett, Theodore Ham, Robert Marvin, and Alvin Dares.

The camp was formally opened on Monday morning, July 26. The tents were all pitched and dinner ready when the boys arrived after having hiked to the camping ground from the city. The smiling face of Leonard, the camp cook with his cry: "Dinner is ready, boys!" was certainly a pleasant greeting for the hungry youngsters. The first night in camp was certainly a wet one, and many of the boys insisted that they needed an ark or an anchor; but morning brought its sunshine, and the camp life took on a much pleasanter aspect. Eating, swimming, hikes and boat rides, together with occasional ball games and athletic contests filled every part of the waking hours.

The boat donated to the troop by the navy department which has been moored at the Yacht Club float was towed to the camp by Mr. Samuel Littlefield who very kindly volunteered to perform this service for the boys.

During the week the camp entertained many visitors. Among these were parents and friends of the boys who showed great interest in the camp and boys' welfare. Much appreciation is expressed by the scoutmaster and the boys to these visitors, who not only brought with them a keen interest in the camp, but many expressions of this interest in the form of entablatures all of which found a ready welcome.

Mr. Littlefield again volunteered his services in bringing the boat and camp equipment back to the city, and the camping party ended with a cheer from the boys as the boat left its moorage at the camp ground at four o'clock Friday afternoon.

A few days ago attention was called to the filthy condition of the lower part of the South Pond. A well known citizen who takes a keen interest in all matters pertaining to the city, informs us that the scum is now very much in evidence in the upper pond, near the foot of Rogers street. This is surely not a pleasant sight to gaze upon, by the many persons who visit the South playgrounds.

DUTCH SUFFRAGISTS HOPE FOR FULL FRANCHISE

Women of Holland have been watching with eager eyes the progress of events in Denmark which led this year to political equality for men and women, and have had their hopes raised to a high pitch for their own enfranchisement. Holland is about to change her constitution, and the Dutch Woman Suffrage Association is making every effort to have introduced in their country a bill such as King Christian X of Denmark sanctioned, giving to women suffrage and eligibility on exactly the same terms as men.
